

Notes on Contributors

DUNCAN DU BOIS retired in 2010 from after 30 years of teaching history at matric level. His book Labourer or Settler? Colonial Natal's Indian Dilemma was published in July 2011. He is currently engaged in research on a thesis entitled "Sugar and settlers: the settlement and development of the Natal South Coast 1850-1910".

Born and educated in the UK, RUPERT DENHAM worked for a television company in London before moving to South Africa in 2002. He taught at King's School for five years and Eastwood Secondary in Pietermaritzburg for two years. He now works at the University of KwaZulu-Natal Law Faculty for a legal outreach programme, helping with fundraising and research.

JEFF GAISFORD worked in conservation in KZN for 36 years, for many of them as official spokesman of the former Natal Parks Board, later Ezemvelo, and is now retired. He has had a thing for flying boats and sea-planes since childhood. He loves flying but it makes him sick, and he loves boats although they make him sick too.

ADRIAN KOOPMAN is a professor in the School of isiZulu Studies on the Pietermaritzburg Campus of the University of KwaZulu-Natal.

CHRISTOPHER MERRETT is a former librarian and administrator on the Pietermaritzburg campus of the University of Natal and now Letters Editor at The Witness.