

Notes on Contributors

ALLEYN DIESEL lectured in Biblical Studies at the former Natal Training College and when it was closed in 1987 moved to the University of Natal where she taught in the Department of Religious Studies for 12 years. She holds a PhD in Religious Studies specialising in Hinduism.

DUNCAN DU BOIS is a retired teacher and a current eThekweni Metro ward councillor representing the Bluff. In 2014 he successfully completed a doctoral dissertation entitled “Sugar and Settlers; the colonisation of the Natal South Coast 1850-1910”. It has recently been published under the same title.

ROBERT HASWELL is a former academic geographer, a former Member of Parliament, a former Mayor of Pietermaritzburg and a former Municipal Manager of the city.

ELWYN JENKINS is Professor Extraordinarius and Professor Emeritus in the Department of English Studies at the University of South Africa. He has written four books on South African English children’s literature.

ADRIAN KOOPMAN is an Emeritus Professor of Zulu of the University of KwaZulu-Natal.

